PROJECT

Last week, you watched a talk about how screens affect our mood and our daily life. Now, you are going to make your own research. You are going to write a short survey about what people use their phones for. Once you have the results, you will use them to write a short report.

 Write 5 to 8 questions about how much people use their phones and what they use them for. Interview your classmates, family, or friends. Remember to ask about:

the apps they use;
how they feel about those apps;
their phone use in general.

 Write a report based on your results. In your report, mention wether your results are similar to Adam's. Try to find some similarities and some differences. Also, remember to use some quantifiers.
